Bonus Bill in Senate To-day on Way to Legislative Graveyard

Special to The SUN AND NEW YORK HERALD WASHINGTON, May 30 .- The soldier bonus bill, which was passed yesterday by the House after a forty minute debate under gag rule, will be formally received by the Senate to-morrow, but indications are that it will be quietly buried in the legislative graveyard for

The measure will go to the Finance Committee, It is understood there are sufficient votes in that committee to prevent it being reported, and many of the prominent members of the Senate are deter-mined to put it to sleep forever. It is certain the bill will not be reported out of committee before recess is taken for the national conventions, and if any effort is made to call it up Senator Thomas of Colorado and three other Democrats are ready to conduct a filibuster

Members of the Senate consider the tax provisions of the bill particularly odious, and opposition to the bill has been more pronounced there than in the House, where yesterday's vote showed only 40 Republicans and 52 Democrats recorded against the measure.
